

The Golden Boulder

Not so long ago in the land of Burma, a young man worked in the corn fields. After a long, hot day, at the end of his shift, he was making his way home when he decided to take the abandoned path that led over the seaside cliff. Exhausted and regretful, he journeyed on and when he got to the top he caught sight of a gigantic golden boulder.

Immediately the man started thinking about fame and fortune. Eagerly, the next morning the man took some friends and marched up to the top of the hill. The young man also arranged for two construction workers to drive large cranes and meet them there. None of them believed him but that all changed when their doubtful eyes gazed upon the shimmering rock.

Straight away they set to work, attaching ropes to the giant stone with super strong suction cups, and using the cranes to try and lift it up. But the lump of gold just wouldn't budge. As quick as lightning, two of the men hurried back down the hill to get more cranes, and use the extra strength to help. Alas, this did not have any effect because the boulder was not just wedged into the ground, it was part of the cliff.

This troubled the man for a while but then he remembered that when he was a kid he wanted to be a restaurant owner. So he decided to build a restaurant on the top of the boulder. In the end he hired his friends to help him run the restaurant and they all got rich and lived happily ever after.